DOCUMENT AUTHENTICATION

- Most legal documents used in China need to be authenticated by the Chinese Embassy or Consulate.
- This seems to be a simple process, but it could be complicated because of the language in the documents, notarization and authentication process at various levels, jurisdictions, and the supporting documents for the process. Many applications are rejected, and mail-in application is NO longer accepted. USCCC is an expert in this field, applications submitted by USCCC on behalf of clients are 99% accepted and approved.
- It maintains an extensive collection of templates for documents to be notarized such as power of attorney and other in both English and Chinese as well as supporting documents for the process.
- USCCC provides free translation of passport – this eliminates an extra step of hiring a licensed translator in China when the authenticated copy of passport arrives China – save time and cost
- USCCC offers authentication services not only by the Chinese Embassy and Consulate, but also by the U.S. State Department: New York Countu: New York State: Illinois State. and other select iurisdictions
